Founded in 1915 as the Cartographic Group, the first division of National Geographic, National Geographic Maps has been responsible for illustrating the world around us through the art and science of mapmaking. Today, National Geographic Maps continues this mission by creating the world's best wall maps, recreation maps, atlases, and globes which inspire people to care about and explore their world.

We bought this to help plan for our trip, and use on the way. I ended up being not that useful for either purpose. The color scheme makes it really hard to read, and the text is tiny. It wasn't always clear what is a road and what that road is named. We ended up buying a different map in Alberta at a gas station and it was so much better. This map is waterproof, and easy to fold back to its shape. It is too bad that it isn't easy to read.

THE WORST National Geographic map I have ever gotten, and I have ? 20. DO NOT BUY. Inadequate detail, not all towns or roads are listed, making it hard to navigate, period. We had to stop and buy a generic Alberta map to navigate.

Very nicely made. Could withstand considerable rainfall. Nice photos and general information. Not much detail such as point to point distances and useful points of interest. I would not buy again.

This maps omits secondary, but key, roads along with town maps. Also, the color scheme makes it hard to read. Better maps are available.

Nothing better than a cold winters day, a GREAT map, and head full of summer plans. Just what we were looking for!

As described.

My wife and I are planning a trip into the Canadian Rockies and this destination map was great for what we needed. It shows all the popular attractions and many we didn't know about. The arrival time was excellent only taking four days to receive the map.
