Bless The Imperfect: Meditations For Congregational Leaders

Synopsis

From some of the most prominent voices in Unitarian Universalism today come these 50 poems, prayers, and prose reflections to support and celebrate congregational leaders. These meditations "alternately serious and funny, tender and frank" portray an understanding of congregational leadership as an avenue for spiritual growth rather than an administrative chore. They inspire and affirm the work of all kinds of leaders "professional and volunteer, lay and ordained. Suitable for both private reflection and public worship, this collection holds up the role of leader as vital to healthy congregational life and honors those who serve in this capacity.

Customer Reviews

Like most books of this ilk, I found gems and whatever is the opposite of a gem. The book is an easy read and it is gratifying to stumble across the good stuff. Beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

This is a great book to use for readings at church board meetings or other gatherings of church leaders. I highly recommend it.

Love this book! While not every one of the readings resonates, most are wonderful and there's always a reading that works for a particular leadership setting or challenge. The readings are short enough to use as openings or closings for meetings or for discussion when team-building.

Particularly useful is that the readings are gathered around the theme of blessing the imperfect; starting from where we are, in our often-flawed attempts to be the change we wish to see. A must read for leaders.
