Synopsis

"Sheer indulgence from start to finish." – Sophie Kinsella Anna Trent may be a supervisor in a chocolate factory...but that doesn't necessarily mean she knows how to make chocolate. So when a fateful accident gives her the opportunity to work at Paris's elite chocolatier Le Chapeau Chocolat, Anna expects to be outed as a fraud. After all, there is a world of difference between chalky, mass-produced English chocolate and the gourmet confections Anna's new boss creates. Customer Reviews

I really enjoyed the story of the two principal women. A very touching story. And, since Paris is my favorite city, I love to read anything that is set there. It makes me feel like I'm having another visit.

I learned much about the art of chocolate making, while traipsing along with the characters. This tugged at my heartstrings. I have since loaned the book often to others.

My first pleasure of reading a Jenny Colgan book, I plan to read more! A romantic but light hearted book with beautiful descriptions which took me back to Paris and it's yummy foods, it even created a little tear here and there! and I was very disappointed that the book had to finish.

I liked the book and thought it well written.

I quite enjoyed reading this novel. It evokes the feeling of being in Paris, the characters are like able and the story intriguing. Makes me want to visit and enjoy the sights and smells while indulging in fine handmade chocolates.

A light hearted beach read that made me hungry! This is cute, chick-lit, set in Paris, France. An enjoyable way to savor the "City of Lights" without being there. It also had me understanding more about the execution of making chocolate goodies. I might even use some of the recipes at the end of the book.

Such a cute book! I read a couple of this authors books before and this too is a great read

The biggest plus of this book is that you get to enjoy the stories of two women. Simple, easy read. Loved the detailed descriptions of nearly everything particularly Paris life.
