A Year Of Good Beer Page-A-Day Calendar 2016

Synopsis

Say “Prost!” with a bright Bavarian Weltenburger Kloster Pils. “Kanpai!” with Japanese Asahi Breweries Dry Black Bar Style Super Dry Black beer (served with lemon and mint over ice). Or “Cheers!” with what could only be an American creation: Portland’s Rogue Voodoo Doughnut Bacon Maple Ale. Whatever your toast, here’s to 365 days of good drinking. Includes recommendations, perfect pairings, trivia, quotes, and more.

Overall, I have few complaints. It’s interesting and one of the only beer-centric calendars I’ve found, period. The reason for my 4 star review is that some of the trivia is fairly common knowledge to those who have an interest in beer, though most of it is at least minimally interesting, and the beer reviews thus far (I haven’t looked ahead and am reviewing it on Tuesday February 23rd) are pretty heavily focused on Colorado based breweries with descriptions that you can tell are meant more for the masses than a true beer geek. On the whole though, it’s really not that bad. The only thing I would suggest for a future calendar would be to try to focus on beers that are fairly readily available throughout most of the US. Most of the CO beers that have been reviewed thus far I've never seen on the east coast. Other than that, I really enjoy it and would buy one again for next year!

This calendar has made getting to work every morning a little less horrible. Most days have a different beer, but occasionally they have recipes, quotes from notable figures that include beer, and even random facts like a beer-drinking bear during WWII. Each beer has a great blurb about the brewery and the color, flavor, and ABV of the drink. It has had a great selection of beers, some of which I know and the rest that I have on my list as must-tries. If you're a bit of a beer snob like I am, this is definitely the calendar for you.

Good so far. Too many IPAs for me but interesting factoids. Will see how the year goes.

I get this calendar every year. It's a great conversation piece for the office.

Such a fun thing. My husband loves it. He does say however, that they seem to favor Colorado breweries. :) (This is not a problem for him because he loves Colorado beer)

Other son enjoys it

Very much appreciated by the gift recipient who is into craft beer.

Love beer, read it daily. Lots of new brews to try
