Canine And Feline Behavior And Training: A Complete Guide To Understanding Our Two Best Friends (Veterinary Technology)

Synopsis

This book provides a comprehensive overview of the most critical components of a successful human-animal relationship, and provides a framework to understand the behavior, communication patterns, and learning techniques that govern social interactions. Well-researched and accessible, Canine and Feline Behavior: A Complete Guide to Understanding Our Two Best Friends is an application-based resource to encourage effective training and behavior modification programs for both dogs and cats. Coverage begins with a foundation of evolutionary histories and domestication, focusing on normal communication and social behavior patterns. Learning theory is then presented in the context of real-world relevance to companion animal care, behavior prevention, training, and modification. Finally, common behavior problems and approaches to manage these issues are discussed, making this an essential resource for anyone seeking to understand more about their dogs and cats.

Customer Reviews

"This book is well-researched, absolutely thorough and brimming with sound information. A splendid antidote to the fads, content-free drivel and made-up junk that plagues the popular dog behavior literature." -Jean Donaldson, Director of The San Francisco SPCA Academy for Dog Trainers
"Linda Case builds on well-documented evidence regarding the evolution of dog and cat behavior, and presents training and behavior problem solving within this ethological context. The fundamentals of learning theory are presented in a clear fashion and many examples are provided. Case provides substantial documentation to support her descriptions, while at the same time, avoiding excessive jargon and terminology. Most important is that she takes the time to debunk shallow and "pop" presentations of such concepts as dominance and the role of punishment." - Stephen Zawistowski, Ph.D., CAAB Executive Vice President, ASPCA "This book is destined to become a classic textbook for students of dog behavior, but should also be of interest to every pet dog owner and enthusiast in the country. The book contains all of the information from an outstanding knowledge of theory, but more importantly from Linda Case's own personal experience as a dog trainer and behaviorist." - John Rogerson, founder and principal lecturer of the Northern Centre for Canine Behavior and author of seven books "As one who lives and works with both dogs and cats, I am very pleased to see them discussed together in this text. The side-by-side comparison of their domestication processes, developmental stages, body language, and behavior issues is valuable to anyone who lives or works with, or cares for them and wants to help them. Whether the reader is a student of veterinary science, shelter worker or rescue foster, trainer or behavior consultant, owner or potential adopter, this text is packed with up-to-date scientific information, written in a very digestible format. Each chapter contains references to the best scholarly texts available. Thank goodness Linda Case has done the work for us to be able to access such an approachable compilation of vital material. All of us - and especially cats, dogs, and owners - will be better off for it. I need two copies - one for reference and one to loan out." - Janet Velenovsky CPDT, CDBC-TAC, Animal Behavior Consultant

Linda P. Case is the Owner of AutumnGold Dog Training Center and an Adjunct Assistant Professor at the University of Illinois, College of Veterinary Medicine.

Astoundingly accurate scientifically yet easy to read. A winner!

It is very easy to read and include many useful information. I recommend to all.

Arrived very quickly . This book has ALOT of information for both cats and dogs . Love it! Thank you

There's so much information in this book and Linda Case did an amazing job of organizing it in a way that wouldn't be overwhelming for the reader. The most unique aspect of the book is the format. Each section compares cats and dogs so it allows the reader to develop a greater understanding of how they are different and how they are similar. The behavior and training described in the book promotes understanding, communication, and will strengthen the bonds we have with our companion animals. There are review questions in the book which will be extremely helpful for professionals. Linda also helps illustrate points with excellent case studies. There are also numerous references and recommended reading. Regardless of how much you know about dogs and/or cats, I promise you will come away with a new understanding. Linda knows her subject matter and writes in a way that is easy to understand yet extremely comprehensive. I've highlighted and marked up my copy so much that I've had to order a second copy.-- Pam Johnson-Bennett, CABC, author of "Think Like a Cat"

This book embodies the reference source that most primary care companion animal veterinarians need in order to better guide their clients who are struggling with dog or cat behavior issues. I found it to be well organized and efficiently cross-referenced for the type of searching most veterinarians are wont to do. There were medical treatment options and at the same time a realistic emphasis on exercise and reward-based training. This book will NOT disappear on a veterinarian's book shelf! Carl L. Eisenhard, D.V.M.

Canine and Feline Behavior and Training: A Complete Guide to Understanding Our Two Best Friends provides a fine overview of behavior and communication patterns between canines, felines and humans. It packs in over 50 illustrations and photos and discusses non-confrontational methods, providing step-by-step instructions for desirable behaviors and including references for each topic. Case history examples pack a practical primer.
