Metaphysics: A Guide And Anthology

Synopsis

A complete and self-contained introduction to metaphysics, this anthology provides an extensive and varied collection of fifty-four of the best classical and contemporary readings on the subject. The readings are organized into ten sections: God, idealism and realism, being, universals and particulars, necessity and contingency, causation, space and time, identity, mind and body, and freewill and determinism. It features a substantial general introduction and detailed section introductions that set the selections in context and guide readers through them. Discussion questions and detailed guides to further reading are also included.

‘The editors are sure-footed in their treatment of the subject and manage to convey its complexities and profundity in a clear and accesible fashion.’E.J. Lowe, professor of philosophy, Durham University`It really would be possible to build an introductory course in metaphysics around this book as its sole text.’E.J. Lowe, professor of philosophy, Durham University.‘I have only praise for this outstanding and very thoughtfully constructed volume.’E.J. Lowe, professor of philosophy, Durham University.

Tim Crane has taught philosophy at University College London since 1990. He took his PhD at the University of Cambridge in 1989. Katalin Farkas graduated in mathematics and philosophy from the Eotvos Lorand University, Budapest, and she took her PhD in philosophy from the Hungarian

Ordered this anthology for my metaphysics course. I learned about universals, dualism and substance. These essays will blow your mind!

the book was bigger than I expected, but; it is really good, lots of interesting topics and surprisingly some pictorials as well.
